A tribute to the illustrious Jokhi Family, in Hong Kong:

Who have lent credence to life's truth that no matter how humble the beginnings with benevolence and hard work a family can achieve unprecedented heights;

Who in their quest to meet greater challenges in life travelled destiny's long road from Navsari to Hong Kong and set up businesses in vegetable oils, cotton goods, silk and ivory and rose to great heights;

Who with their virtues of honesty, integrity, and probity build a reputation for themselves and kept the family values intact;

Who as their guiding principle believe that 'giving is better than receiving' and no success or achievement in material terms is worthwhile unless it serves the interest of the community;

Who with their characteristic foresight and thoughtfulness bestow their wealth, time and again, upon India and have constructed the spacious Ava Baug, in Navsari, a sprawling property that is home to 2000 Parsis;

Who when it comes to success, more than any milestone in business, completed the 'Jokhi Wing' at the B.D. Petit Parsee General Hospital in Mumbai, etching a triumphant story of saving lives and helping the needy;

Who in their quest to support religious causes for the community established the Shapoorji Fakirji Jokhi Agiary at Godrej Baug, in Mumbai, in loving memory of late Shapoorji Fakirji Jokhi a noble and renowned soul, who was the first to arrive from the Jokhi family in Hong Kong. Today Keki Jokhi, the benevolent brother of Shapoorji Fakirji Jokhi, and his two sons Rustom Jokhi and Burges Jokhi have added a new dimension to this legacy and continue their philanthropic works by supporting innumerable causes worldwide and provide support to the Ruttonjee Hospital, Red Cross, and Save the Children, in Hong Kong;

Who with their motto in life say: 'Enjoy, but don't destroy life's precious bounties;'

Who with their actions have inspired others to dream more, learn more and do more, and believe that success emanates from aspirations, desperations, perspirations and inspirations. It can come in many forms, it can be professional, material, spiritual or in seeing the joy of your family and community doing well;

This nobility of theirs, has made every Zoroastrian proud of this esteemed family and no words of ours though written in glow, no chapter that our hands can weave, no testimony that our personal knowledge can bring will add anything to this flame of philanthropy that has been kept alive by the esteemed Jokhi family.
